Copyright:

U.S. Copyright law governs the making and use of most photocopies and other reproduction of copyrighted materials. Most manuscripts, sound recordings, photographs and moving images housed in the UTSA Archives and Special Collections are protected under copyright law.

Transmission, reproduction, publication, or presentation (public display, performance, Internet presentation) of protected items requires the permission of the copyright owners. For more information on copyright, contact the U.S. Copyright Office (<http://www.loc.gov/copyright/>).

Copyright status and information on the copyright holder for archival and manuscript collections may be difficult if not impossible to determine. Whenever possible, the Department provides information about copyright owners as a service to aid researchers in determining appropriate use of an item. However, that determination and the responsibility for obtaining permissions rest with the patron.

I have read, understood, and by my signature below agree to comply with the above agreement. I have been notified of my obligation to observe copyright, and I will make only fair use of these copies in my private study, scholarship and research. I accept full responsibility for any infringement of copyright or other legal questions that may arise from use of these copies.
