Search by keyword - Basic

1. Do each of the keyword searches below using the "Basic Search" option. Choose which one you think is best for the topic, "Are college students at a greater risk for Internet addiction?" and explain why you made this choice.
 - a. Type exactly: "college students" and internet and addiction
 - b. Type exactly: "internet use" and addict*
 - c. Type exactly: (internet or web) and addiction
 - d. Type exactly: freshmen and "chat rooms"

2. Select one full-text article from the best search you chose in #1. Write the title of the periodical, the title of the article, and the subject terms listed for the article:

Search by keyword - Advanced

1. "Advanced Search" is the default search option in ProQuest. It provides three boxes in which to type keywords. Notice the drop-down menus that allow you to select "AND," "OR" and other search tools. Take the best search you chose in the above activity and try to re-create it using the "Advanced Search" option. Did you get the same number of results? If not, why?
